

Nevada State Journal
Feb. 4, 1894

Friday night a meteor about as large as a washtub fell near a telegraph office on the line of the C. & C. Railroad, striking the earth with a force sufficient to throw the operator out of his chair.